Christa Hits the Road

One of our favorite folkies is heading out to see the country and spread her music far and wide. Bluesy songstress Christa DeCicco played her final local gig until October at Preservation Pub on Aug. 24 before driving solo towards the West Coast. Her aim? To promote her music, make some industry contacts, see her friends and do some manual labor as part of the Willing Workers on Organic Farms volunteer program. Her destinations are California, followed by Oregon, Washington and Vancouver, B.C. Keep up with her progress at www.myspace.com/christadecicco.
